

Seminar on Legal Implications of Using Social Media

(Jointly organised with CED)

Successfully Held on 29 June 2017

With the advancement of technologies in today's society, the use and legal implications of social media is demanding in the workplace. The aim of this seminar is to equip participants with upgraded knowledge and competence in tackling real-life situations with legal implications in the workplace use of social media and for avoiding pitfalls that may flow from the day-to-day workplace operations. Those who attend this seminar may be able to acquire a greater understanding of the legal knowledge required to safeguard the corresponding legal rights in relation to social media.

The Seminar on "Legal Implications of Using Social Media" was successfully held on 29 June 2017. The visiting lecturer was Mr. Patrick Wan, Barrister-at-law.
