

Seminar on “Essentials of Contract Writing and Negotiation”

Successfully Held on 1 December 2017

Disputes and damage are locked in once a contract is formed. The same is no less true in commercial contracts. Making the contract to do its job is the key. Based on lessons learnt from decided cases.

This seminar aims to provide a structured and workable framework for participants to adopt in negotiating and writing their next contract. The key components matching contractual provisions with business and management outcomes are examined, through the stages of the planning, negotiating and drafting stages of a commercial contract. Sample drafts are also discussed and examined.
