

Seminar on Construction Contract Claims --- Principles, Practice and Processing

(Jointly organised with IfE, HKPU)

Successfully Held on 17 February 2017

Dispute and claims are a fact of life in the construction industry but it does not make them any easier to deal with. This seminar will explore the salient legal features in construction claims commonly encountered in Hong Kong. It is vital for professionals in the construction industry to be alert to issues in this subject area.

Through an interactive learning approach, this seminar will involve presentation, discussion and group exercises with illustrations of real life situations and case studies.

The Seminar on “Construction Contract Claims --- Principles, Practice and Processing” was successfully held on 17 February 2017. The visiting lecturers were Mr. Matthew Cheung, Barrister-at-law and Mr. Henry Tsin, Barrister-at-law.